

Greetings,

I am writing to request that the FCC not lessen the effectiveness of the no-call list in Indiana. I find that the no-call list has greatly improved my quality of life. I do not do business over the phone anymore due to the constant harassment I used to receive over the phone, however I used to do phone business. I was regularly harassed by AT&T to become their customer again at least 3 times per day (I did not owe any money, it was strictly sales) as well as weekly and sometimes daily calls from MCI, VISA, MasterCard, Sprint, places selling windows, siding, household alarms...and I have an apartment! I got at least 3 calls perday, some days over a dozen. This is harassment in my house and I don't want it back. They often claim I had done business with them before, but often I hadn't. PLEASE don't let them start that again! I'm literally begging you not to change this law. I feel comfortable in my own home, no longer have to screen my calls, and so forth. If a company can only make money by harassing people on their own private property then they should not be in business. Thank you for making me aware of this issue and considering my comments. I would be happy to discuss this more at length with you, if you would like. My email address is noxy@animail.net.

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Sincerely,
Ruth Neustifter
